

Disability Rights
WASHINGTON
Washington's protection and advocacy system

Do you have a disability? You have rights!

Disability Rights Washington (DRW) protects the rights of people with disabilities.

DRW is a non-profit organization that is not a part of state government. DRW provides free advocacy services to people with disabilities, including:

- Disability rights information and referrals
- Problem solving strategies for disability issues
- Community education and training
- Legal services for disability discrimination or violation of rights

If you want more information or have a complaint about your rights, make a free phone call to our office from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, at:

1-800-562-2702
